

EAGC By-Laws

These Bylaws and Regulations constitute an agreement between EAGC and its members. Each member agrees to be bound by these Bylaws and Regulations and any amendments thereto, and by the lawful action of the Board of Directors, or voting members of the Council.

- Any member may leave EAGC without refund by giving written notice to the Board of Directors. Any member, who has not paid their dues within one month of the due date, shall be deemed to have their membership lapsed. Lapsed membership shall be removed from the member directory. If a member fails to pay their annual subscription after twelve months, the lapsed member must reapply and pay full registration fees to rejoin the council. A lapsed member has no right to EAGC services, information or any of the preferential EAGC discount fees.
- No member or Director may use EAGC's resources or legal status for personal, political, or financial gain. The Board may take disciplinary action against a member in such a case if deemed to be true by Board review.

The Council Secretariat maintains a membership database and is responsible for information dissemination, notification of member subscription expirations, and follow-up on payments due, lapsed membership, payments received, etc.
